

Cinema Seating Reservation System

This is just the welcome screen. Click the continue button to select the movie and showtime.

On this screen, you can select a movie and a showtime. You must select a movie and a showtime to continue. If you try to continue without selecting a movie and showtime, a warning message will appear. If you try to select a showtime without selecting a movie first, the box will appear blank. You must select a movie, then a showtime. Once you do so, you can continue to the next screen.

This is where you select the seats that you want. The seats that are greyed out have already been reserved by other users or customers in the theater. Every seat in white is available, and you can choose however many seats you want. You cannot click the seats that are in grey, and you cannot continue without selecting a seat. You'll know when you selected a seat because the selected seat will turn red. You can also deselect the seat if you decide that you no longer want it. The layout of the screen is the layout of the theater and shows how far away or close you will be to the theater screen.

This is where you can select the number of tickets, if any. You have two options: you can skip buying the tickets completely and pay for them at the theater, or you can buy the tickets now. If you try to press continue with the tickets being at quantity zero, you will get an warning message telling you that you must select at least one ticket from one of the three categories. If you do not wish to buy tickets at the moment, you can press skip. Otherwise, click on the arrows to select a ticket quantity. Once you do so, you can press continue. And, of course, you can always go back if you’ve changed your mind on the selected seats or showtime.

The concept of this screen is the same as the screen where you select the number of tickets you want. The difference is that there is a checkbox next to each food item, and the place where you select the quantity is greyed out until you select a food item. This way, you know what specific food item you will receive and the quantity of that food item. Again, you can keep everything at quantity zero and skip, or you can select the food items that you would like to purchase and continue.

This is the reservation summary screen, where you can see the summary of everything you selected. At this time, you can go back if you've changed your mind about anything. If not, you can press checkout to go to the checkout screen.

Here is where you can enter your contact information to receive your reservation details. You can receive them via text message or email, just select either one, whatever your preference is. Because tickets and food items were selected, there is a payment information option. The user just needs to enter their card information to pay for the tickets and food. If you only reserve a seat or seats, the payment information option won't appear at all, so you don't accidentally put in your information or think that you have to. Once you input everything, you just press send reservation.

After pressing send reservation, you should get this screen. Ideally, your information will be sent to your email or phone number to refer back to. And that's it!
